Description

Quantum Logistics Solutions is a key player in the supply chain sector across the United States, committed to efficiency and employee development. We are looking for motivated individuals to fill the General Labourer/Warehouse Assistant position. This role is crucial to the smooth daily functioning of our warehouse, requiring a hands-on approach and a commitment to accuracy and safety.

The ideal candidate will be physically fit, reliable, and capable of working in a fast-paced environment. Your primary responsibilities will include handling incoming shipments, verifying contents against invoices, correctly sorting and storing materials in designated locations, and meticulously picking and preparing customer orders for dispatch. You will operate basic material handling equipment and must prioritize workplace safety at all times. This position offers an excellent chance for those with foundational or entry-level experience to build a solid career path in logistics and warehouse management. We value dedication and offer on-the-job training to help you grow within the company.
